

AES

Atlantic Eye Symposium

Don R. Nixon, MD is currently medical director of Trimed Eye Center Barrie and Assistant Professor Northern Ontario School of Medicine. He received his medical degree from Queen's University, Ontario and completed his internship at University of Toronto, Ontario. After completing his ophthalmology residency at Queen's university he went on to an Oculoplastic fellowship at University of Toronto. He is in private practice specializing in anterior segment surgery, glaucoma, and medical retina. He has completed further training in medical retina as well as refractive surgery. He has multiple peer reviewed publications, contributed chapters, and numerous presentations at national and international meetings as an invited guest speaker. He has won five best papers of session awards for research work presented at the ASCRS. His study interests include intraocular lens design and in vivo performance, software and hardware design for phaco systems, glaucoma and medical retinal trials.

